SCIENCE MEN MAKE PROTEST

Urge Faculty to Reconsider Action Re Granting Years.

RESOLUTION IS PASSED

Lengthy Discussion On Advantages Of Move Being Made.

After a rather lengthy and loose-jointed discussion, the Undergraduate Society in Applied Science yesterday afternoon passed a resolution requesting the Faculty to repeal their present regulations governing the granting of years or degrees to students who enlist for overseas service.

The meeting was called to order at half-past four by W. S. Sutherland, the president, who then stated his reasons for calling it. A petition signed by 159 students had been received, asking for a meeting to consider the notice recently posted by the faculty. He then invited discussion on this subject and called on V. Lemay, president of the third year Science, who said, in effect, that he considered a system of consideration of each student's case individually by the Faculty would be preferable to the present scheme.

Mr. Ryan, the circulator of the petition calling for the meeting, then expounded his views, saying that many of the men attending the University this year had come back under the impression that conditions would be the same as those which obtained last year, and that great hardship resulted from the fact that they would be compelled to remain until March 15 before receiving their degrees. The speaker then produced the resolution, which was afterwards passed, and handed it to the president, who brought it before the meeting for its consideration.

In the ensuing discussion, N. T. Binks, vice-president of the Undergraduate Society, was of the opinion that men should not be granted their degrees unconditionally, as was the case last year. He also objected to the wording of one phrase in the original resolution, since it might be interpreted as casting a slur on certain members of the faculty.

In answer to questions, the chairman said that he had recently seen the Dean in regard to this matter, and had understood from him that the Faculty were willing to allow men leaving at the present time to resume their studies at the point where they left off this year, provided that their standing was reasonably satisfactory. The Faculty had consulted the military authorities as to any necessity to curtail the work of the session, but had been informed that such action was unnecessary.

Mr. Smith, who had also interviewed Dr. Adams on the same subject, stated that he had been given to understand that in any case where a request was received from the military authorities, stating that the immediate presence of a particular man was necessary to the organization of any corps, he would be allowed to leave immediately and every consideration given him.

An amendment was here introduced by Mr. Done, seconded by Mr. Shean, making an alteration in the wording of one of the clauses which most of the speakers had found objectionable. After a few more of those present had aired their views, this amendment was carried and the discussion of the resolution as a whole was resumed.

F. L. West remarked that one phase of the subject which had not been touched on was the effect on the value of the degree which would be caused by giving degrees to men who had only done half the work of the final year. He said that under the examination scheme, if a man failed he knew why he did so; but if each case was merely considered by the Faculty, there were two things which could result—either some men would be refused and there would immediately be talk of favoritism, or else men would get their degree who did not deserve it, and its value would be consequently lowered. The speaker considered that the society owed a duty to the graduates, both past and future, in this matter.

SKATING PARTIES.

The Students' Council last night decided that the skating parties should be made a weekly function. The great success of the first skating party was so pleasing both to the Y. W. and Y. M. C. A.'s and to the Council that the latter have decided to give financial assistance to make these functions increasingly popular. The next one will be held this coming Friday.

HOSPITAL IS AGAIN OPENED

Now In Active Operation At Its Base In France.

NEW OFFICERS REQUIRED

Vacancies in Medical Staff of No. 3 General Are To Be Filled.

After inactivity of over a month's duration, No. 3 Canadian General Hospital (McGill) is again open and has already received patients from the front. The Hospital is now settled at its new base, and everything is working with the smoothness which characterized its earlier workings. This information was received by cable yesterday by Colonel H. S. Birkett, officer commanding the unit, who is in Montreal on leave, but expects to leave on his return to France within a week.

The cable message stated that the nursing sisters and officers who have remained with the Hospital are in charge, and the work is proceeding in a very satisfactory manner. As the progress of the work warrants it, the officers and nursing sisters who have been detailed temporarily for duty elsewhere will return to the Hospital and resume their duties. The cable was from Lieut.-Col. J. M. Elder, who is in temporary command of the Hospital during Colonel Birkett's absence. It stated that the whole of the ordinance of the Hospital, amounting to over 200 tons, had been moved by the members of the Hospital alone from the old location to the new in the remarkably short time of twelve hours. This means that 200 tons of materials were loaded, transported by rail to the new base and unloaded there within the time mentioned—a most creditable record.

Colonel Birkett stated to the McGill Daily yesterday that four vacancies on the medical staff must be filled within a short space of time. Applications to join as junior officers of the unit will be received by Dr. J. W. Seane, Registrar of the Faculty of Medicine. Applicants are expected to be ready to leave for France within the next three weeks.

Col. Birkett has now completed the official business with the University and the militia authorities at Ottawa which brought him to Canada. He is returning to France to rejoin his unit within the next few days.

Special Instruction For Non-Swimmers

Commencing this afternoon at 5.15, special instruction is to be given to students who are unable to swim. Arrangements have been made by the Department of Physical Education to have Charles E. Pengelly, last year president of the Swimming Club, and one of McGill's best swimmers, to help in this work. Last summer Mr. Pengelly taught swimming at the Battle Creek Sanitarium, and is particularly qualified to help students in this important art.

These classes are to be held twice weekly, on Tuesdays and Saturdays, from 5.15 to 6.30 p.m. The classes at first are to be entirely for non-swimmers, but later on this may be changed to include those who desire to improve or change their strokes.

First-year students are to register attendance at the gymnasium as usual, and at 5.15 they will be excused in order to receive instruction at the pool.

All instructional work is to be held at the swimming pool, Central Y. M. C. A., Drummond street, on Tuesdays and Saturdays, from 5.15 to 6.30. The classes are entirely optional, without cost, and open to students of all years. It is confidently expected that a large number of students will avail themselves of the opportunity afforded to master the art of swimming, which, apart from its great usefulness in times of danger, is one of the very best methods of physical exercise.

CAPT. SIMS M.O. OF 148TH

Newly Appointed Officer Is Old C.O.T.C. Man.

RECRUITING IS BRISK

Many New Men Taken On the Strength Of the New Battalion.

Captain H. A. Sims, Medicine '04, has been appointed medical officer of the 148th Overseas Battalion, C.E.F., which is being raised by Lt.-Col. A. A. Magee. Capt. Sims is no stranger to military work, as he has had over a year's experience in the Canadian Officers' Training Corps. When the C.O.T.C. was first organized in August of 1914, Capt. Sims was one of the first to start training, and he continued all winter working diligently with the battalion. Before the year closed he received the rank of sergeant in the C.O.T.C.

When the Auxiliary Battalion was being raised Capt. Sims was once more on hand to offer his services. He did excellent work in the examination of the recruits for the summer battalion. After this he did not continue his work in the Auxiliary, but took up work in the Army Medical Corps, where he has been working up to the present. Capt. Sims has had a good deal of experience with the soldiers, and his appointment will very likely prove a popular one with the men of the 148th Battalion.

Since Saturday approximately 70 men have been sent up to the doctor. These men are not being put into uniform at once, but they have to be put through a certain amount of drill before they are finally accepted by the commanding officer. So far quite a number of men have been turned away after going up before a drill instructor and failing to satisfy him that they will prove efficient soldiers. In this way Lieut.-Col. Magee hopes to get rid of the loafers.

The recruiting schemes which the 148th have brought into vogue are already proving that they are going to be successful.

The tram car which they are running through the city with the bugle band on is proving quite a drawing card for recruits, as are the two stationary cars which have been established in Dominion Square.

Up to the present the 148th have established a record for recruiting, especially in their N.C.O. class. This class has already proven its worth, the result being that there are a large number of men all ready to take hold of new unseasoned recruits and put them through their paces. The work which was done on the Auxiliary Battalion and the C.O.T.C. is proving their worth. The men who have enlisted from these two units start their drill again like old veterans.

A very interesting record, and a further example of the anxiety of men who have seen previous active service and who have rejoined the colors, is William Little, an Englishman—17 years with the King's Own Royal Lancasters, seven years of which time he spent with them in India and two years in South Africa. He holds the Queen's Medal, South Africa, with five clasps, and the King's with two clasps. He was present at the relief of Ladysmith and the battle of Langenshoek. He then joined the 5th Royal Garrison Hussars, and was in Halifax for two years. Since the war started he has been a member of the Composite Regiment. He has a number of nephews at the front, one of whom was wounded at St. Julien.

George James, an Englishman, was fourteen and a half years a member of the Northamptonshire; served 18 months in South Africa, and holds the King's Medal with five clasps. Two of his brothers are at the front, and one was invalided home.

A. Hogue, of Montreal, had a nephew a sergeant, who was killed with the 22nd Battalion.

Harry Week, has a brother with the 87th.

G. W. Nuttall, an Englishman, who has been living in the States for three years, came up to Montreal for the sole purpose of enlisting.

Gunner Cockfield Tells of Life
With Cape's Battery.

7 MCGILL MEN PROMOTED

Princess Pats To Re-enter the Trenches—J. C. Farthing
Confined to Hospital.

An interesting letter has been received from Gunner A. E. Cockfield, No. 302906, with the 3rd Overseas Battery Siege Artillery, now stationed at Dover Castle. "Ernie," as he was generally known, was a popular member of Science '17. Last fall he attended third year Survey School, and immediately this was over enlisted in Major Cape's Battery. Gunner Cockfield writes:

"I guess you are surprised to see that we are stationed at Dover Castle. We left St. John on December 18th. The weather was fair, and I was not seasick, although the rolling of the ship made me dizzy. We had a concert on board on Christmas Eve, in which both soldiers and sailors participated, and it was a great success.

"We landed at Plymouth on the 23rd and entrained for Paris unknown, passing through London and landing at Dover about two o'clock next morning. We marched to the castle, which is on a hill about 1-1/2 miles from the station. Finally we got to sleep at four o'clock, and reveille sounded at 11 a.m., when we arose for breakfast. No drilling was done that day, but we walked around and got our bearings.

"The next few days were spent in marching, etc., and then I was put on Headquarters party, and we are attending lectures given by an English Captain who has returned from the front. There are twenty taking the class, seven of whom are McGill fellows, including Hal Mullian (1st year), Stan Foster (1st year), Brophy (1st and 2nd), Cunningham (grad.), Wood (grad.), Troy (prof. in physics), and myself.

"We have lectures in the morning, and then field work with instruments. The work is interesting, and helps me to keep up my studies. To-day I got a box from the Science Undergraduate Society of McGill, and I certainly appreciate their sending it to me.

"How are things at Old McGill? Has Kelly posted our results in surveying yet? I hope we all got through O.K. Don't forget to remember me to all the boys, especially Bob and Alec.

"We are having quite an easy time of it at present, as we cannot do any gun drill, as our guns have not come yet. We just get route marches, foot drill, and a few lectures.

Airman Comes Close.

"Last Sunday a German aeroplane sailed over us, and was fired on by the R.G.A. (which is the permanent garrison here), but although the anti-aircraft guns fired about fifty shots, he was flying too high and escaped unscathed. He flew over the castle, and, although our own aeroplanes went after him, he had too long a start and got away O.K. It certainly was a fine sight, and the German had his nerve with him, as we have a regular battery of aircraft guns here, and it was at 2:30 p.m. at that. But I guess he got a scare, as he went off at a fine rate.

"I hope you got through your Christmas exams. All right. We sleep four in a room here, and the barracks are pretty comfortable.

"Well, I guess I have told you all the news. Hoping to hear from you soon,

I remain,
GUN. A. E. COCKFIELD, No. 302906,
3rd Overseas Battery Siege Artillery, C.F.A.,
Dover Castle, Dover."

A postcard from Lance-Corp. C. J. Lightbody, Theol. '17, of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, dated January 11, stated that the unit was then in reserve and expected to re-enter the trenches on the following day.

John C. Farthing, Arts '18, who has been training as a non-commissioned officer at the School of Artillery at Kingston, is a patient in the General Hospital in that city.

W. J. Raynor, Theol. '17, of the Presbyterian College, has obtained a commission in the 45th Victoria Regiment, stationed at Lindsay, Ont. For duty and instruction he is attached to the 109th Overseas Battalion, mobilizing in the same town. Lieut. Raynor took his instruction in the C.O.T.C.

Lieut. E. F. Newcombe, Arts '11, Law 13, of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, suffering from a wound in the neck, is reported dangerously ill in France.

Orders from the Militia Department conveyed the information that Lieut. Col. H. J. Trihey, Law '09, of the Irish Rangers Regiment, has been appointed to the command of a new battalion to be raised here. It is Lieut. Col. Trihey's intention to make the unit an Irish battalion as far as possible, and for the start at least only Irishmen will be invited to join. Lieut. Col. Trihey has already received more than 100 applications for commissions, and out of these he expects to be able to select a finely efficient staff of officers. Among the applicants are several McGill men.

OPEN MEETING OF PHILOSOPHERS

All Invited To-Night; Dr. Caldwell Will Give a Lecture on Balfour.

The open meeting of the Philosophical Society is to be held in Strathcona Hall at 8.15 sharp to-night, and, with Dr. Caldwell, head of the Department of Philosophy at McGill, as the speaker of the evening, a most successful meeting is assured.

The subject upon which Dr. Caldwell will speak is "A. J. Balfour's Recent Glasgow Lectures on Theism and Humanism," and is one which, in virtue of its interest and importance at present, will prove of considerable attraction to all. Students of Philosophy and members of the Society are strongly urged to be present, while a cordial invitation is extended to the general public and all outsiders interested in the subject.

The meeting will be held in the Assembly Room of Strathcona Hall. Free discussion on the subject will follow the delivery of the address. Make it a point to attend, as the evening will be most profitably spent.

DIOCESAN AND SCI. '16 WINNERS

fear that he may be laughed at. However, if these opinions are set forth by another party, then this very man will be the one to say that they are the right things.

After this the speaker gave an example of all the people in the world thinking too little of themselves, showing that civilization would go backwards instead of progressing. The other extreme, Mr. Shaer showed, might not be perfect, but it would be better than if all men thought too little of themselves. His conclusion was that if all the people in the world thought too much of themselves, then we would see the world progress, with the result that inventions would come out.

Mr. Shaer then gave a number of quotations, among which were that the Gauls were forced to submit themselves to the rule of the Romans through lack of conceit. He also showed that a man succeeds because he never contemplates failure, and thus he often accomplishes the impossible.

The last speaker of the negative, Mr. Shean, of Science '16, showed many conditions of life as a result of men having too much confidence. He gave the example of a High School boy coming up to a college and thinking he owned it, but after a short time he found he knew very little, and his thoughts were far greater than his abilities. He also stated that heretofore plays a great part in the world, and that it was not only confidence on Columbus' part that led him to find a new world, but the fact that he was born to perform the task, and thus accomplished it. He then discussed many of the arguments set forth by Mr. Shaer, showing that the intermediate course, that of thinking exactly enough of oneself, was the better one.

After this, Mr. Kerr spent a few minutes in rebuttal and summing up the various points for the affirmative. Prof. Lathan then discussed the debate, showing that it was a very curious one, and one that he thought would be treated judiciously. After giving his decision in favor of the Science students, the meeting closed with a hearty vote of thanks to the judge.

Diocesan vs. Presbyterian.

In the other debate, it was announced that the Diocesan College would support the affirmative, while the Presbyterians would argue the negative.

Mr. Findlay, the first speaker on the affirmative, prefaced his arguments by giving a careful definition of "attitude" and "statesmanship." He sketched the history of Mexico in the last eight years—the death of Diaz, the murder of Madero, and the internal chaos which ensued. Wilson defended the frontier and threatened Vera Cruz with his fleet, when Huerta took the helm. Carranza championed the cause of the dead Madero against Huerta, and came into power constitutionally and not by murder. On the other hand, Huerta was continually guilty of unconstitutional acts—for example, the imprisoning of deputies and the holding of an election in war-time. Wilson, he said, had to take a very drastic step if he was to take one at all, and therefore adopted a passive policy, as he felt that armed intervention would not be necessary to a satisfactory solution of the difficulty. Both the English and South American press endorsed a policy of peace. Wilson wished to institute "peace for all and free election."

Mr. Strange, in refutation of Mr. Findlay's statements, said that Huerta did not respect Mexican law. Huerta, he held, did succeed constitutionally, although the fact that he sprang from low Indian birth should not have prejudiced President Wilson. Wilson did not recognize Huerta's sound claim to the presidency, and he failed in championing the rebel, Carranza, conscientiously to follow the policy of the Monroe Doctrine. He ought, instead, to have conciliated Huerta and aided him in governing.

Mr. McCormack, the second speaker of the affirmative, held that Wilson could not well countenance Huerta, and a great body of the Democratic and Independent press, not to speak of McGill men.

FINE RESULTS FROM CAMPAIGN

Y.M.C.A. Reports Large Increase Over Last Year; Next Meeting Important.

Two or three matters of great importance were brought up and discussed at last night's meeting of the Y.M.C.A. Board of Directors. The Assistant Secretary, K. P. Tsolainos, made his report on the latest results of the recent financial campaign.

About $695 has been received, in fact the total was very little less than $100. According to the pledge cards there is still due between one hundred and seventy-five dollars and a hundred and eighty, so that if this was realized some eight hundred and seventy-five dollars would be the net result of the campaign. The Assistant Secretary stated that fully $40 of the amount due could not be received because the men had enlisted, who promised the money.

The results as shown in any case are a large per cent better than last in proportion to the number of students. About 200 students have produced some $750 this time while a far larger college only gave in somewhere around $600.

Next week there will be held an extremely important meeting of the Directors whose chief business will be to arrange for the approaching annual meeting. For this a full attendance is urgently required, as there are other matters which can only receive proper attention when a full number is present.

PARTIAL PLAY SOON.

Proceeds Will Be Devoted to Benefit of the Khaki League Funds.

During the past three weeks the Partial Students have been hard at work practising for the play which is to be given on Saturday next. Already the work done begins to have most encouraging results, and there seems every prospect of a most enjoyable performance being given. Those intending to buy tickets may obtain them from any member of the cast. The price of admission is thirty-five cents, and the proceeds are to be handed over to the Khaki League. The audience is warned that no seats are reserved, it is advisable to be in the Common Room sharp on time. The performance begins at three o'clock.

ABANDON INTERCLASS HOCKEY.

A meeting of the R.V.C. Athletic Association was held yesterday in the Common Room, with Miss Mary Currie in the chair. The question of inter-year hockey was brought up again, and it was decided that, as neither the second nor fourth year could produce a team, interclass games must be abandoned. The meeting then adjourned.

DR. MCKENZIE IN THE R.A.M.C.

Is In Charge of Medical Depot at Manchester, England.

HOLDS RANK OF MAJOR

Massage Treatment Successful in Restoring Many Wounded to Health.

Dr. R. Tait Mackenzie, Arts '89, Med. '92, the eminent physical educationist and sculptor, whose work is so well known at McGill, is now serving as a major in the Royal Army Medical Corps at Heaton Park, Manchester, England. Major McKenzie, who has been acting as director of physical education at the University of Pennsylvania, went overseas last June and tried to secure a commission in the Canadian Army Medical Services. He did not succeed in having his appointment confirmed from Ottawa, and so took out a commission in the Royal Army Medical Corps. After his promotion, Dr. McKenzie started as a lieutenant at Aldershot. Later he received promotion to the rank of major, and is now in charge of the medical depot at Manchester.

In his work of canvassing the London hospitals to look up the facilities for massage and exercise, and in collecting the wounded Canadians in France and England for removal to special convalescent homes, he became familiar with the surgery of the war. Major McKenzie writes, and saw a large number of men who had been "gassed" as well as wounded with shrapnel and the results of the last winter in the trenches—the so-called "trench-foot."

Gas Cases Distressing.

"The gas cases are the most distressing," he writes, "and go all the way from sudden death from filling up of the lungs with mucus due to the intense irritation of the gas, through violent bronchitis and strangulation to a low chronic bronchitis complicated with heart weakness and inflammation of the kidneys. In some the mental effect is also profound and lasting. "Trench-foot" runs all the way from a slight frost bite to gangrene, and the cases I saw were mostly neuritis following the injury of four or five months before. One man told me that his feet felt all right when he began to march, but by the time he had gone three miles he felt as if he was marching on his bones.

"A place of peculiar interest is the Institute for blinded soldiers and sailors, under C. Arthur Pearson, president of the National Institute for the Blind. He has himself lost his sight and has started the teaching of massage to some of the poor fellows blinded by the foul gases or who have otherwise lost their sight. "Many wealthy people have given up their houses as nursing homes, and so many offered that the War Office had to refuse a large number of good places. I visited Cliveden, the home of Waldorf Astor, in whose magnificent grounds is the Canadian hospital. It was touching to go through these beautiful rooms and halls with the groups of blue-coated patients under the guidance of Mrs. Astor, whose kindness and hospitality are both spontaneous and genuine."

London Full of Firebugs.

Dr. McKenzie, before receiving his commission in the Royal Army Medical Corps, took advantage of the interval, he says, and accepted the offer of John S. Sargent to use one of his studios to set up a sketch for a proposed monument to George Whitefield. "Sargent is at work on the great decorations for the Boston Public Library," Dr. McKenzie writes, "and has three studios filled with these great works of art that will make a profound impression on the art world when they are mounted in place."

Dr. McKenzie refers to the heavy expanded iron netting which was put up in preparation for the Zeppelin raids which were expected every night, and to the sand and other extinguishers which were got ready in public buildings like the National Picture Gallery and South Kensington, "but the real danger anticipated," he writes, "was from fires set by German agents scattered throughout London. In the raid on Hull and Scarborough nineteen such fires were started, and it was known that London was full of firebugs."

Dr. and Mrs. McKenzie got lodging, he says in the letter, at Kneilwood, a fine old country house, set in a garden and park, but now turned into a boarding house for officers and their wives. It is three-quarters of a mile from the hospital and gymnasium at Aldershot, he says, and there are about a dozen officers billeted there. Aldershot, which is a town of about 60,000 persons, is the headquarters of the physical training for all the instructors who go out to the new army.

Innovations Needed.

"There are many experiments to be tried and there should be material for a fine book on the physical training of the soldier," Dr. McKenzie writes. "The bayonet fighting is all new, and we are working on the technique with the help of men who have been through actual bayonet warfare. All kinds of innovations are needed. Sacks are hung up like our football tackling bags and bayoneted, sacks are put in trenches and behind trenches. All who have seen actual fighting unite in saying that the Germans will not stand up to a bayonet charge; they either run or throw down their arms and surrender. "There are many interesting in the 600 that come up, officers from all over the world, men from every regiment. Boxers will be interested to hear that Bombardier Wells is in the present class, and every shade of dialect from Land's End to John o' Groat's is represented.

"The conditions in the new army are almost exactly the same as would occur if America were required to raise a large army suddenly, and the problem would be the same. Yesterday I heard a sergeant give elaborate instructions about form in the bayonet charge to his class. They charged, but not to his satisfaction. All he said was, 'Thank God, we still have the navy.'"

Describing his work at Manchester, Major McKenzie says: "The hospitals and streets are full of men who only need this massage treatment to bring them back to condition, and I will have 4,000 of them when the camp is filled. This will take some time, and there will be many delays before we get everything running smoothly.

"I think it is a good work, however, and am very busy getting my staff organized. I will have eight doctors, 40 masseurs and 48 attendants.

"When I get it going I will send you a story about it, but at present we are all in confusion. I wrote my first letters to-day on a deal-trestle table in my new office with a borrowed typewriter, so you see it is very different from the well-ordered office at the University of Pennsylvania gymnasium.

"With kindest regards to my McGill friends and best wishes for your success."

THE next examination for the entry of Naval Cadets will be held at the examination centres of the Civil Service Commission in May, 1916, successful candidates joining the College on or about the 1st August. Applications for entry will be received up to the 15th April by the Secretary, Civil Service Commission, Ottawa, from whom blank entry forms can now be obtained. Candidates for the examination in May next must be between the ages of fourteen and sixteen on the 1st July, 1916. Further details can be obtained on application to the undersigned. G. J. of the Republican, has found fault with Wilson's policy. American citizens he pointed out to have been murdered in Carranza's territory. Wilson should have copied McKinley's Cuban policy, "Invasion, reorganization and withdrawal."

In rebuttal, Mr. Findlay reasserted that Carranza was the only logical and constitutional choice for the presidency of Mexico.

Before passing judgment on the debaters, Dean Moyle made a few remarks, earnestly deploring the lack of interest in the "Lit.," which he considered one of the most important college activities. He then proceeded to the subject of the debate. He emphasized his lack of prejudice and bias, and said that he gave his decision according to the general impression. If Wilson had waged war, it would have been against the forty million people of Mexico, as it could not have been merely a punitive measure against the faction at fault. On the other hand, with Carranza in command and Wilson lending benevolent aid in governing politics, the long dormant sense of unity and patriotism would have been awakened. Mexico, with a good internal government, would have a great national future. Sir Edward Grey, even during the period of the Benton furor, praised Wilson's policy.

Mr. Jones, the second speaker of the negative, criticized unfavorably Wilson's policy of "passive indifference," and "peace at any price." Peace, he said, was at too great a price if it involved the murder of hundreds. Wilson has also shown himself which the different debaters gave. He therefore gave the decision to the affirmative side. He laid stress on one great essential quality—facility of language. He also advised the debaters to speak as much as possible without the use of notes.

After a vote of thanks to Dr. Moyle, the meeting adjourned for refreshments.

Yesterday evening, at five o'clock, in the Morrice Hall of the Presbyterian College, Dean Fenn, of the Harvard School of Divinity, gave an informal address to the students of the affiliated colleges. Dr. Fraser, acting as chairman, introduced the speaker, and spoke of the great privilege the audience was receiving in hearing the Principal of the oldest divinity school on this continent.

Dr. Fenn began by congratulating the students present on the fact that they had achieved co-operation in theological study—a state of affairs that was extremely desirable under present day conditions. "Harvard," said the speaker, "had also accomplished something in the line of co-operation, having a Faculty composed of members from all denominations. The Dean then traced the history of Harvard Theological School, its rise, its initial sectarianism, and the gradual accomplishment of the present policy of the college. The speaker pointed out that at the present moment students of Harvard Divinity had the privilege of attending lectures in Baptist, Congregational, Wesleyan, and Unitarian colleges near the University.

WRESTLERS MUST PAY THEIR FEES

Or They Will Receive No Instruction, says Students' Council.

Routine matters alone occupied the attention of the Students' Council at its regular weekly meeting in the McGill Union yesterday afternoon. The following members were present: Arthur S. Lamb, president; F. B. Andrews, Hockey Club; Hugh Cronbie, Track Club; S. J. W. Liddy, Science; W. B. Galvin, Law; Eric A. Cushing, Athletic Association, and H. R. Morgan, Arts.

The success of the skating party held last week was reported by the committee selected to co-operate with the Y.M.C.A. and the Y.W.C.A. In the holding of the event. At future skating parties of this sort, three-fifty cents tickets will not be accepted at the gate, and a straight fee of 25 cents will be charged.

Further sales from the old supply room stock were reported. There are still many articles available for purchase, including metal McGill shields, sweaters, shoes, brushes, sleeveless jerseys, pants and wrestling trunks.

The Boxing, Fencing and Wrestling Club affairs were again under discussion. It was moved that only members who have paid their fees should be allowed to receive instruction from the paid wrestling instructor.

The method of keeping the Council books was gone over in detail by the secretary, which showed a most satisfactory condition. This report was very interesting, in view of the fact that yesterday, being the third anniversary of the secretary's term of office, the comparison of the system now in vogue to that which was in force before Mr. McVillie's engagement, was made.

The president recommended that a system of checking of the issue of athletic equipment to the various clubs be inaugurated. After considerable discussion a plan was adopted by which a record of the equipment issued to the managers will be kept in the Council office and managers held responsible for the return of same.

READING COMPETITION.

Will Be Held Under Auspices of Delta Sigma Society To-morrow.

To-morrow, at three o'clock, a meeting of the Delta Sigma Society will be held in the Common Room of the R. V. C. The meeting will take the form of a Reading Competition. Each competitor is to choose a piece of poetry or prose, which shall not take more than two minutes to read. She will then read a piece chosen by the judges.

Members of the Delta Sigma are reminded that by the constitution every member is to take an active part if called upon in at least one meeting during the session. The Reading Competition forms an excellent opportunity of fulfilling this obligation.

HELD THEATRE MATINEE.

Law '18 Men Celebrated Conclusion of Examinations.

In order to characterize the conclusion of its examinations in a fitting manner, Law '18 declared the afternoon a "legal holiday," and adjourned to the Orpheum en masse. There, then, with washed faces, hair combed in the middle, sat the flower of the Law Faculty, an oasis in a desert of pink tea artists, matinee habitués, and office boys whose grandmothers had died for the occasion.

As a fairly good bill graced the afternoon, the affair broke up in a flood of good feeling and complacency, which even the recollection of morning examination failed to disturb.

MCGILL CHEMICAL SOCIETY.

The regular meeting of the McGill Chemical Society will be held this afternoon at five o'clock. Mr. V. H. Motham will present a paper on "The Dissociation of Oxy-Haemoglobin." All those interested are invited to attend.

important rather than the things actually taught.

L. H. Laffoley promptly contradicted these statements, saying that they might be partly true of the first three years, but the chief means of determining whether a man deserved the degree was the way in which he used what he had previously learned to solve the practical work of the fourth year, and especially of the last term.

After a few more remarks by various members, the resolution was put to a vote and carried by a considerable majority. The text of the resolution as amended and carried is as follows:

"Whereas, during the session of 1914-1915 students of good standing enlisting or obtaining commissions in overseas units were granted their degrees or standing, the Faculty considering each case on its own merits.

"Whereas, the Faculty has recently enacted regulations whereby no student withdrawing from the University before March 15, 1916, will be granted his degree or standing, and any student desiring such concessions must, on or about March 15, pass a series of special examinations, the concessions being restricted to students who enlist for overseas service or who have obtained or are recommended for commissions.

"Whereas, many students, during the present session assuming that the procedure of 1914-1915 would be continued throughout the war, have made preparations for enlisting in overseas units, and now find the present regulations prevent their doing so.

"Whereas, the present regulations restrict students to enlisting in units mobilized after March 15, when many are or may be desirous of joining units of their choice now being formed, or which will be formed previous to that date.

"Whereas, the seriousness of the present military situation urgently demands enlarged rather than restricted facilities to students desiring of serving the Empire in an overseas unit.

"Resolved, that the Faculty of Applied Science be requested to reconsider their decision in this matter, and in considering the application of any student applying for concessions, the said student, having in good faith, either obtained a commission or having been recommended for military service by competent military authorities, that his case be dealt with by the Faculty individually and on its own merits."

R.M.C. GRADS. NAMED.

Two Are Mentioned in Despatches of Sir Ian Hamilton.

Two graduates of the Royal Military College are mentioned in despatches issued by Sir Ian Hamilton. One of them, Capt. A. S. C. Rogers, is remembered by many Kingstonians, and he has been killed in action. The officers are: Major C. M. Stephen, Army Ordnance Department, who graduated from the R.M.C. in 1896, served in South Africa, receiving the Queen's medal and two clasps; Capt. A. S. C. Rogers, East Yorkshire, and Sixty-First Pioneers, killed, graduated in Kingston, 1910.

RESIDENTS AIR THEIR OPINIONS

Meeting of Residents of Strathcona Hall Was Held Last Evening.

The House meeting at the Strathcona Hall last night was productive of much timely criticism and suggestion. H. B. Church in the chair led off the meeting by referring in detail to many little matters of interest to those living in the Hall, chiefly complaints against the nuisance which a few men make of themselves.

Mr. Church began by deprecating the lengthy stay made at the telephone and the consequence of the apparent nervousness of some who spent their time scratching diagrams on the walls. Then the magazines. Men who take these out to read articles in their rooms and then forget to get them back into the rack. He made a plea for more tidiness downstairs in the Hall, urging that the men discontinue throwing paper around the floor. Smoking downstairs too is really absolutely against the rules. Economy in electric light is necessary nowadays to some extent, too.

The Chairman also made reference to additions being made to notices on the notice board as being too much like a freshman's trick. After a few more remarks the Chairman called for any suggestions and remarks.

Messrs. Miller, K. P. Tsolainos, Gibb and others expatiated on the remarks of the chairman, urging more quietness and consideration on the part of the Hall members.

Deshabille downstairs is not very advisable in view of outsiders, and some more order in the reading room was requested. The meeting then adjourned.

ARTS '19 HOCKEY.

The men mentioned below will please turn out for a practice this afternoon from three to four, and for the game against Arts '16 and '17 on Wednesday at 1.45 sharp: Deale, Campbell, Claxton, Cross, Frost, Laurie, McClelland, McFarlane, Richardson, Roltsfield, Silver, Smith, Symonds.

GOOD WORK OF R.M.C. STUDENTS

"Have Brought Honor to Every Province," Says Dr. Edwards.

In his speech in the House of Commons on Thursday, Dr. Edwards referred to the excellent work that is being done at the Royal Military College and the large number of good officers who are being prepared for action on the battlefields of France. He tabled a record of the institution for the year and in commenting on it said:

"The students of the Royal Military College have brought very great credit to that institution and to all parts of the Dominion, inasmuch as they come from all parts of Canada. In 1914 the number of commissions taken in the Imperial army by the gentlemen cadets of the college was 50; in 1915 it was 22. In the Canadian Permanent Forces 29 commissions were taken in 1914, and 39 in 1915. In the Canadian Overseas contingents, 24 commissions were taken in 1914 and 26 in 1915; or a total in 1914 of 103, and in 1915 of 87; or a grand total of 190. These figures represent the totals for a period of 16 months, and the percentage of cadets taking commissions for that period works out at 98 per cent of those available. I think, Mr. Speaker, that is a record of which this country may well be proud, for I repeat that these students are drawn from every province in the Dominion. They have brought honor to every province, and their record at the front is certainly one of which we may well be proud."
